PERMS OF DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE COUNTRY. Six Months Three Month One Month . No subscriptions taken for less than one month.

We have before us the message of his Excellency Beriah Magoffin. We had hopes of him; we are slow to relinquish hope. We shall not give him up yet. But, oh, what a politician! It will be seen from his remarks on Federal relations, that he advances some of the wildest and most preposterous doctrines ever read or printed. If we had anticipated such an expose, we should have taken him out and talked to him, and persuaded him to draw a pen over part of his political philosophy(!) The nentrality of Kentucky-we have a partiality for it. We had something to do with its birth, and we do most solemnly protest against the ugly deformed thing the Governor & Co. make of it. The reader will see at a glance that their neutrality, instead of being a modest upassuring policia within the limits of the Federal Constitution, is an impudent assertion of State independence. It is open secession and rebellion. It places Kentucky above the Federal Constitution; defies the Federal Government, and leaves us as much in open rebellion as South Carolina. His Excellency speaks of the two parties at war as standing in the same relation to this State. He has been negotiating with one and the other, as if precisely equal in their relations to Kentucky. Now, let's see how, in the name of any sort of sense, such a posi tion is sustained. Let it be recollected that | Fresence in the Capital. the Governor is acting under an oath to support the Constitution of the United States. The laws made in pursuance of it, the supreme law of the land, anything in the Constitution or laws of "any State to the contrary notwithstanding." But, as we said, let us see how the Governor rises above all this. Here is the basis, in the language of his Excellency: "The very corner-stone of the State Rights party, to which I have always adhered, is the right of the people of a State, by a lawful expression of a majority thereof, to determine the policy and relamore broadly still. He says that "the majority of the people of a State, as a distinct aggregate sovereignty, had the rightful au thority to regulate their internal policy, and define their external relations, according to their own pleasure."

If this be true, verily Kentucky could assume independence of all nations, kindred tongues and people; but then we should like to dispense with that small matter of an oath that men take to support the Federal Constitution or any other kind of Con stitution. Let us swear by that aggregate majority, whose lofty, unlimited discretion is above all Constitutions. We grant that nothing less than this could support the Governor's notions of neutrality. He has measured his doctrines by the necessity of the case, and has made his enunciations ample to cover the emergency. If they be understands it, which is not neutrality, but independence or secession, will do, if the people of Kentucky choose it; but then, alas! his Excellency is not out of the woods. He says the people have undoubtedly decided "to wait the exhaustion of all civil remenot answer; for if his neutrality is against Tennessee. Kentucky guns are stolen. but against it.

To get along logically with his neutrality, the Governor must invent some more philosophy of Government. A State may remain in the Union, and reject one or more of its conditions or laws. This is a logical necessity to the Governor, and he must accept it; and the aggregate majority of the Abolition States had a right to pass personal liberty bills. These are not nullities, as we had supposed, and we have no right to complain of them.

The reader will find in the message some expressions allowing the validity of Constitutions: but these would upset all the Governor's logic. Admlt the binding obligations of the Federal Constitution, and the Governor's neutrality is overboard. Kentncky is a State of the Union, bound by its Constitutions. But the Governor places no restriction on his neutrality. It is not limited by the Constitution. He doesn't pretend to reconcile it with the Constitution.

We are for nentrality, as far as we can have it without resistance to the Constitu- a back full of bruises." That is about the tion; for neutrality and pcace. Resistance to rightful authority, and defiance of laws in pursuance of the Constitution, is the road to anarchy and strife. The experiment has been made all around us, and ended, uniformly, in blood.

Some other things in this message we shall notice hereafter.

heads and sap heads are gathering togother nessee. to instruct and educate the Legislature. Senators and ex-Senators, Governors and ex-Governors all caucus, talk and discuss. Four or five politicians sit, like little Jack Horner, in a corner, and gravely wag their heads, ponder, meditate, reflect, and oonthey have laid, and proclaim, "even in the stone of the theory of the State Rights Capital" (Hotel), that their measures are party, to which I have always adhered, is precisely the thing demanded. They must the right of the people of a State, by a lawbe adopted-otherwise, war, pestilence and ful expression of a majority thereof, to famine. They come asking peace, in the determine the policy and the relations o same way that a highway-man asks for a the Commonwealth." "In the canvass purse. When their threats are treated with which led to my election as Chief Executive the contempt they deserve, the hens retire quietly to their nests, cogitate, reflect, and a fresh ovoid specimen is egged out, to share the same fate as the first.

In little rooms there are perpetual cau cuses going on. There are more wise men assembled in and around Frankfort just now, as we saw in a brief visit on Thursday, than assembled in the full Sanhedrim of the Jews when Judea was the promised land. The whole object and intent is to influence the Legislature-to drive them into some position not in accordance with the recent vote of the people. These little caucuses have but one effect, and that is to gratify themselves, and cuddle up that vanity which is common to all very wise men, who are fully consoions of their own merits.

It would sound invidious to mention the name of the Black Republican from this city who has brought on "two wars" in the Courier, and who is now one of the defenders of the faith of secession in this State; and we wish to be understood as emphatically declining to mention the fact of his

Maj. Breokinridge, Gov. Morehead, Gov. Powell, and others of that ilk, were present members of the Legislature are acting under in full force. Gov. Powell looks pretty the same oath. There is a clause in that much as usual; has the same peculiarity of instrument which pronounces it, and the sitting down very low in a chair, and that easy, good temper which is easily humbugged and led astray. He really means well, is a kind-hearted, clever gentleman, and his present position is more his misfortune than his fault.

Maj or Breckinridge is looking better than he did last summer. He seems to have recovered that scholarly look he had in his better days, and is cool, easy, indifferent, and as inexorable as fate-doubtless. His influence is not as great as would be extions of the Commonwealth." Here it is pected under the circumstances, but he sits in council with the rest of the wise men, and doubtless congratulates himself at being the high priest of such a council.

> Gov. Morehead was present, looking fat and fatuous, with a generons double chin, and partially sleepy, winking eyes.

Judge Moore, too, was there, with that delicious drawl of his, and the Methodist intonation, looking around for his rights; and such men were, in little cliques, controlling the destiny of Kentucky-adopting new courses every hour, and proposing compromises, and doing the unanimous in the way to be expected from such a colloquing. We could not look at them without feeling how well it was for brethren to dwell tus Casar and his successors to take more frolics, that there was one Saint more whose health ought to be drunk.

Frankfort, on the day we arrived, was tucky, and the general opinion was, that it was an insult and outrage which ought to dies before they will even consider the be resented. The invaders ought to be question of assuming new external rela- driven from the State at once, and that is tions." So then the aggregate majority have still the feeling. Governor Harris' letter not chosen any new external relations. So has done nothing to alter this opinion. We the theory invented by his Excellency will seem to occupy a peculiar position with the conditions of the Union, the people, the The Governor does not seem to think it a aggregate majority, have not decided for it, matter much worth mentioning, though we get an apology. The guns, however, are not returned. Tennessee still holds 1,100 stand of arms and six pieces of cannon belonging to Kentucky, and notwithstanding Governor Magoffin's appeal, they are not sent back. The establishment of camps at Cumberland Gap, by Tennessee; the seizure of Ken tuckians in the State, are excused, apologised for, or justified.

Kentucky is, in reality, in the position that Tom Marshall once was. According to his account, he was assaulted in Frankfort, by some four or five persons, late on a winter night, and beaten nearly to death. He recognized one person connected with the attack, and resolved, as soon as he could leave his bed, to call him to account; but the very next day a committee waited on him, to assure him that it was all a mistake; there was no intention to attack Mr. Marshall; but he had been mistaken for another person, and they desired to express their regrets, etc., etc., etc.; and wrote them out in due duelling form. The consequence was, Marshall declared, that he arose from his bed "with a pocket full of apologies and position Kentucky occupies with Tennessee. Not a word indicating any intention to agsault that State has ever appeared in Kentucky, but Kentucky has been continually assaulted by Tennessee. Worse than this, Tennessee still utters a threat against Kentucky; and Governor Harris' last letter to the shortness of the day, by which so much Governor Magoffin is accompanied by a neat day-light is lost to them.

Frankfort, just now, is the center of threat that Kentuckians must break up their attraction. From all over the country wise camps, or expect to be attacked by Ten-

> Governor Magoffin's Lexicographical Achievements.

No one in the Southern Confederacy can be more emphatically in favor of the right of Secession than is Governor Magoffin. In his message, he expresses the doctrine in clude. They arise, caokling over the egg the most emphatic terms: "The very corner-Magistrate of the State, I contended for the principle, to which I had ever been faithful, that the people of a State, as a distinct aggregate sovereignty, had the rightful agree, that gives equal rights to either secauthority to regulate their internal policy, and to define their external relations, according to their own pleasure." There can be no plainer announcement of the right of and not for a fragment of it. They believe secession. If a State wishes to go out of the Union, to destroy the Government and ruin. Washington, Madison, Franklin and other wise men spent several months in framing a system of government, for the overthrow of which nothing is required but a definition of external relations. We paid fifteen millions of dollars for Louisiana, in order that she might have an opportunity of defining her external relations. Florida cost us nearly forty millions of dollars and thousands of lives, and she cancelled the whole debt by defining her external relations. Texas oost millions of dollars and an expensive war, that she might engage in the lexicographical amusement of giving defini.

The supporters of Gov. Magoffin's views were very anxious to give one hundred millions of dollars for Cuba, apparently for the purpose of seeing how she would define her external relations. The Government of to avoid circumlocution, though it might more properly be called an arrangement for facilitating the definition of external relations-builds forts, customhonses, and other expensive structures within the limits of the different States, to assist them in defining external relations.

Verily, Gov. Magoffin, we can say to thee. as Titania said to Nick Bottom with the ass's head, "our ears are much enamored of thy note." We like this phrase, "define their external relations." It reconciles us to many things in general and several things things that has been inaugurated here since in particular. What's in a name? Good Heavens! what's not in a name! To secede. to revolutionize, to overthrow the Government, may be very bad indeed; but who can see any harm in defining external relations? We have a theory that the world is governed by words, and that things have very little to do with the matter. For instance, the Romans killed Julius Cæsar, because they suspected him of wishing to take the name of King; but they readily suffered Augustogether in unity, and what satisfaction it than kingly power, because he was satisfied must be to know, in their causness, "after a- with being called imperator, or commander. final settlement," that they could meet You can get a man to fight to the very death again, and finally settle it once more, like the for the words "Southern Rights," but try just discovered this most dreadful tendency old monks-they who remembered in their him on the thing! A Union man may be a of things, when it might have discovered somewhat respectable affair; but fasten upon the same thing in the Southern Confederacy him the name of Lincolnite or Abolitionist. and see if the rose would smell as sweet by excited by the seizure of Hickman, Kea- any other name! Ancient Pistol understood the philosophy of the matter. The thing of stealing he believed in; but to the word he was decidedly opposed-"convey, the wise it call," says he. Therefore we heartily approve of Governor Magoffin's phrase. "Define their external relations," let the wise hereafter it call. We see how the word may be beautifully applied to many other matters, by which the use of some very ugly words would be avoided. A woman leaves her husband and elopes with another man; let us call this a definition of her external relations. When a soldier deserts, we shall have no very bad ever, never till now discovered this "most opinion of him, if we merely say that he has defined his external relations. If a man steals a horse, perhaps it may be better to are moving." say that he has defined the external relations of the horse, though there is no impropriety in saying that he has defined his own external relations; for, being previously off the horse, he is now on him. We have a metaphysical scruple about applying the phrase to a man who gets drunk. In this case, is the man's relation to the whisky an external or an internal relation? This may be said, however, to depend altogether on the point of view. We leave this and other things to be decided by time, Governor Magoffin, and circumstances.

The telegraph furnishes an account ! another outrage committed in Missouri. The timbers of the bridge over Platte river were bored nearly through, and the express passenger train crossing, went down, the bridge, cars and all falling in the general crash. Thus innocent people are made the victims of the fiendish spirit of the mob. If the authors of this entrage do not go to hell, it might as well be discontinued.

The Southern lamps are going out from want of oil. The rebels must regret

Gov. Magoffin has a reference to the Crittenden compromise offered in Congress, and seems to hold that he alone has sage: been loyal and Union men faltering. The Correspondence with the President of the Con political opinions of Mr. Magoffin are of no importance whatever, except as the Executive of the State, and he ought to be confined to the Executive Department. So much misrepresentation, however, has been carried on, from the Governor down to the slightest lickspittle of secession in the State, that it may be worth while to reiterate the position of the Union men.

They are for the Union. They believe that the Union cannot be preserved except by compromises. They believe that the Crittenden Compre mise is the best and fairest measure yet proposed, as a compromise, but are willing to receive any measure, upon which all can tion. The Union Democratlo party is, as the Democratio party always has been, in favor of what is best for the whole country, most emphatically in State Rights within the limits of expressed State authority, and formed by our fathers, it has nothing to do consider, for example, that Kentucky's but 'lease its external relations." This position is already defined, and being in the is a very pleasant eupheuism for anarchy Union, must pay the taxes due to the

They do not believe that Kentucky should be insulted by Tennessee, simply because we happen to be kinsmen and friends, but that threats from Tennessee, as published in Governor Harris' correspondence with Governor Magoffin, should have but one effect, and that is, to unito all Kentuckians, no matter what their political opinions may have been heretofore.

The Union party, while they may not approve of the establishment of camps by the Federal Government, to which we ac knowledge allegiance, consider that it is a matter solely under the discretion and judgment of Kentucky and the United States Government; and every threat made by Tennessee, requiring the removal of troops who are quartered in the State, is an attempt at dictation, which either robs the United States-we call it a Government our State of its liberties or leaves as nothing worth retaining.

The following is one of the most significant political signs of the times, and indicates the direction in which we are moving. The Inquirer, from which we copy, is a Republican organ of Philadelphia.

"THE NEW ERA-EBADICATION OF STATE LINES-A NATIONAL ARMY TO BE ORGAN-IZED .- A new era has dawned. The recent order of the War Department ordering to Washington all the regiments now organized in the Northern States, and all parts of regiments, even if unarmed and without uniforms, is but one step in the new order of the adjournment of Congress. That step will result in the formation of a nationa The men, as they arrive here, will into companies and regiments irrespective of States from which they come. They will be armed and uniformed alike, the uniform being the army regulation dress of blue cloth. A new nomenolature will be adopted, discarding the names of States, and referring only to the position which the respective regiments will occupy in the grand army of the United States."—Frank-

Some men can see two sides at once: some men see one side at one time, and another side at another time, and some men cap in all time. The Frankfort Yeoman has months ago. The late Col. Bartow commanded a regiment of Savannah troops. and wished to take them with their arms to Virginia. Governor Brown refused to grant permission, telling him that the troops would be needed for the defense of Savan. nah. Col. Bartow then succeeded in getting a law passed by the Confederate Congress authorizing troops to be offered directly to the Confederate Government, without the intervention of the States. He thus succeeded, in contempt of State authority, in taking away his regiment; and anybody else, in any of the Southern States. may do the same thing, in spite of all the Governors in creation. Mr. Wm. B. Yates, Chaplain of the Confederate Navy, is much in favor of his rights. In a letter to the Charleston Courier he acknowledges the receipt of seventyeight dollars for the privateers, and then says (the italics are his own) at the first meeting called to settle this important question, and thus indorse Lincoln's brand upon Privateersmen, only three or four were present. He then pathetically describes what troubles they had in the second meeting:

Another meeting was called, and by going into the streets a quorum of fifteen was ebtained. From this number, five (the Committee) were excused from voting, thus leaving ten to vote and thus decide for five hundred.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY. Ex. Department, Frankfort, Aug. 19, 1861. Hon. Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States:

SIR: This is to accredit to you Geo. Johnson, Eeq., as a Commissioner from the State of Kentucky. Mr. Johnson is the bearer of a communication which will fully explain the object of his mission. I take pleasure in commending to your consideration Mr. Johnson as a gentleman well ad vised of the existing posture of public affairs in Kentucky.
Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant. B. MAGOFFIN.

FRANKFORT, KY., Sept. 3, 1861. To His Excellency, B. Magoffin, Governor of Kentucky;

Sin: In conformity with your request, I proceeded to Richmond and presented to Hon. Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States, the communication trusted His response is embodied in a letter which I have the honor herewith to hand

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient ervant, Ground W. Johnson.

RICHMOND, August 28, 1861. Hon . Beriah Magotfin, Governor of Sin: I have received your letter inform ing me that "since the commencement of the unhappy difficulties yet pending in the country, the people of Kentucky have indicated a steadfast desire and purpose to maintain a position of strict neutrality tween the telligerent parties." In the came communication you express your desire to elicit "an authoritative assurance that the Government of the Confederate States will continue to respect and observe he neutral position of Kentucky."

In reply to this request, I lose no time in ssuring you that the Government of the Confederate States of America neither in tends nor desires to disturb the neutrality of Kentucky. The assemblage of troops in Teanessee, to which you refer, had no other object than to repel the lawless invasion of that State by the forces of the United States, should their government seek to ap proach it through Kentucky without respect for its position of neutrality. That such apprehensions were not groundless has been proved by the course of that government in he States of Maryland and Missouri, and more recently in Kentucky itself, in which, as you inform me, "a military force has been enlisted and quartered by the United States authorities. The Government of the Confederate States has not only respected most scrupulously the neutrality of Kentucky, but has con tinued to maintain the friendly relations of trade and intercourse which it has suspended with the people of the United States generally. In view of the history of the past, it can scarcely be necessary to assure your Excellency that the Government of the Confederate States will continue to respect the neutrality of Kentucky so long as her people will maintain it themselves. But neutrality, to be entitled to respect, must be strictly maintained between both parties: or if the door be opened on the one seek to enter it for purposes of self defense. I do not, however, for a moment believe that your gallant State will suffer its soil to disregard its rights, over others who respect for Frankfort.

In conclusion, I tender to your Excellency the assurance of my high consideration and And am, sir, very respectfully, yours, &c.

To the Young Men of Kentucky. By the authority, and for the service of the Government of the United States, I propose to organize in Kentucky a regiment of cavalry, to serve three years, or during the war, to consist of ten companies, each company to contain not less than eightyfour, nor more than one hundred and four, rank and file.

Horses and all equipments to be furnished. Volunteers owning good horses can have them appraised, mustered into the service, and paid for by the mustering officer.
The Captains and Lieutenants are to be elected by the companies, respectively. Captains of companies will report to me at the Galt House, in Louisville, as soon as practicable. No company must be removed from its point of organization until ordered into camp. Transportation to the point of rendezvous will be furnished. None but active, vigorous men, and men of steady habits, will be received.

Capt. Richard W. Johnson, of the regular army, has been detailed to act as Lieutenant Colonel. I intend to make this regi ment, in all respects, equal to the best drilled and disciplined corps in the regular army.

I know this call will be patriotically e session of the Legislature, will please snswered. The soil of Kentucky has been J. S JACKSON. wantonly invaded. Louisville, Ky., Sept. 6, 1861.

> We were called in yesterday to see the beautiful stand of colors to be presented to the Kentucky Regiment encamped at Camp Jo. Holt. They were manufa by Hugh Wilkins, who, for his ta workmanship in this line, has proverbial.

The regime ntal standard (Infantry) is of beautiful mazarine blue, six and a half feet long, by six wide. On either side, it has the United States coat of arms. Under neath is inscribed: Louisville Legion, Third Regiment Kentucky Volunteers.

The Cavalry standard is of the same colored silk, with appropriate inscriptions. The infantry regimental flag-the stars and stripes-is made of beautiful ribbed silk The painting on these flags and banners was done by Mr. Fuller, corner of Main and Fourth. This stand of colors is to be presented to the Third Kentucky Regiment, by the Union men of Louisville. Its cost is $250. Mr. Wilkins deserves great credit for the masterly and workmanlike manner in which he has got the work up.

FALL MEETING AT WOODLAWN .- We publish this morning an advertisement announcing the programme of the races to be run at Woodlawn next month.

Amusements of this discription are less disturbed by the unsettled condition of the country than any other. Dr. J. Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters

Is one of the greatest strengthening preparations ex tant. It is especially adapted to those who are afflicted with the Fever and Ague, or any other disease arising from a disordered condition of the digestive organs.
For Fever and Ague there is perhaps no medicine in the word equal to it, as it enters, purifies, and replen-ishes the blood, which is so important to bring about a healthy action in diseases of this nature. The Bitters are now among the most popular, and at the same time ing it to the public, we are fully conscions of doing them a great service, knowing as we do, their many ex cellent qualities, and sure and speedy action in a'i caswhere the disease is, caused by the irregularity of the disestive organs. Hudson, Mo., Sept. 6 .- The following additional account of the terrible disaster on the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad is furnished to the St Louis Republican : The catastrophe occurred at Little Platte bridge, nine miles east of St. Joseph. The bridge was a substantial work of 160 feet span, and about 35 feet above the river. The timbers of the bridge had been burned underneath the track until they would sus tain but little more than their own weight and the fire was then extinguished, leaving the bridge a mere shell.

The train, with from eighty to one hundred passengers on board, including women and children, reached the river at eleven o'clock at night, and the bridge looking sccure, the train passed on. But no sooner had the locomotive measured its length upon the bridge than some forty or fifty yards of the structure gave way, precipitating the entire train into the abyes below. All the seats in the passenger coaches were torn and shoved in front, carrying men, women, and children in a promiscuous heap down the declivity and burying them among the crushed timbers or throwing them out of the cars through the broken sides. Jagged pieces of flooring impaled some. Some were mangled by the machinery learing througe the timbers. Several were caught between the planks pressing together like a vice Others were struck by parts of the roof as it came down with mighty force. Still others were cut with pieces of glass. Still others were cut with pieces of glass, while wounds and blood and agony prevailed ail over the frightful scene, and shricks of pain were mingled with cries of terror.

In the way the two last cars of the train went down, pitching The passengers into the wreck or throwing them into the water. which, at this point, is about a foot and where.
W. Parker, Superintendent of the United States Express; Mr. Mars, Mail Agent; and Mr. Hager, were able to afford assis tance to the suffering, the remainder of those who were not killed outright being so disabled as to be helpless. After doing all it was possible for those requiring immediate attendance, Mr. Hager, at midnight, left the wreck to go to S:. Jeseph for medical and other assistance. Mr. Hager walked 5 miles of the way, when he found a hand car, upon which he proceeded the remainder of the journey. Two hundred yards west of the bridge he discovered a heavy oak railroad tie strapped acress the track, and two miles further on he found the trestle work over a small stream on fire, which bad not, however, as yet, been so badly burnt that trains could not pass over it or could not be easily extinguished. Arriving at St. Joseph the alarm was soon spread throughout the city, and although it | the line. was one o'clock at night seventy-five men, including all the physicians in the neighborhood, quickly volunteered their services At three o'clock a train, fully supplied with

Special Notices.

The fiery ordeal of public opinion is about the best and surest test of superiority or efficiency in anything. It is especially so with all inventions or discoveries. Money of acceptance. This has been strikingly verified in the case of WRIGHT'S REJU-VENATING ELIXIR. It has passed through the ordeal, and established itself in every region where introduced, solely from its intrinsic merit; it pretends to nothing but what it can and does perform as a tonic, alterative, diuretic, restorative and healthgiving cordial; for, though medicinal in effect, it is not so in taste. We say try it!

Sold by all respectable druggists throughout the United States and Canada. J. WRIGHT & CO., sole proprietors, New Orleans, Louisians. See advertisement.

ADVICE .- As the hot season is approaching, every person should prepare their system for the change, and there is no remedy so applicable as "McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Parifier." It will purity the blood thoroughly, and at the same time srengthen and invigorate the whole organi zation. The immense quantity of it that is zation. The immense quantity of it that is sold daily, is proof enough of its great vir-Government, and had just been seized as the tues in thoroughly removing all impure matters from the blood. ### Telegraphic News.

Washington, Sept. 5 - Special to the New York Herald .- The capture of Fort Hatteras and its dependencies has sped along through out the Carolinas. The regiments from South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, hur rying to the Potomac, have been stopped on the way and sent to Newsern, under the impression that an attack is contemplated on the headquarters of the rebel pirates. WASHINGTON, September 5 .- Special to may bring a thing into temporary noteriety, the New York Tribute.—Mr. Burch, the but merit alone can make it retain the post District Consul at Charleston, writes to his friends in this oity that the effect of the blockade is felt with increased severity every week. The Southern people were bitterly lamenting their destitute condition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 .- Special to the N. Times -B. G. Gallagher, Paymaster of the Navy, and who has been for some time stationed at the Navy Yard, was arrested this morning by order of the government, and is now in custody at Philadelphia. Hupson, Mo, September 5 - Abraham loger, baggagemaster on the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad, furnishes the St. Louis Democrat with the following account of a diabolical ontrage on that road day before

The passenger express train, bound West, September 3, was thrown into Platte river, the timbers of the east end of the bridge over that stream having been bored nearly through. The entire train went down The engine went over first, and the baggage, freight mail, and two passenger coaches were piled pletely smashed, and I was the only one of the train that escaped unburt. After getting out of the baggage car I commenced taking the passengers from the wreck. The conductor, S. C. Culler, died in a few minutes. Frank Clark, engineer, had one leg completely roasted. He also died in a few minutes. Martin Field, mail agent, Chas. Moore, firman, and J Fox, brakeman, were killed.

Among the wounded were Mr. Medel, son of Dr. Medel, of Ohio, and his wife; both are badly injured.

I could not learn the names of all the paggengers.

I went to St. Joseph, got an engine, phy sician, and other necessaries for the wounded, and reached the wreck at three o'clock A. M.

The greatest excitement prevails in St. Joseph, in regard to the inhuman outrage. Fr. Monnor, September 5 -The Harriet Lane arrived from Hatteras Inlet this morn. ing, and reports the most gratifying intelligence. The Confederates have abandoned their strongly fortified fort at Ocracoke raid.

North Carolinians have demonstrated their loyalty to the Government by coming to Fort Hatteras to take the oath of allegiance. Col. Hawkins sends word that he administered the oath to between 200 and 300 in a single day.
The steamer Pawnee still lies in the inlet, and the Susquehanna on the outside. The Susquehanna ran down to Ocracoke inlet, and found the fortifications there completely destroyed. The Confederates had carried away their guns, and a white flag was exhibited.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY. MD , Sept. 2 .- At the latest advices from Leesburg there were supposed to be about 7,000 rebel troops at the entrenchments at the junction of the Little Falls road with the Alexandria and Lersburg turnpike, and that nearly all the negroes in the northern part of Fairfax of improvements in Louisville, it will be in- county are employed on the works about There are no large bodies of repels, but their pickets tine the river shore and guard the fords and ferries.

An eye witness states that the affair at Courodo Ferry, a week ago, was as follows: A party of Union scouts crossed the river, and took several prisoners, arms, and four horses. On reaching the river on their return, they were attacked and compelled to let the prisoners go. The next day a bat-tery appeared opposite our entrenchments, and commenced enelling us. We having no artillery there at the time, our men responded with muskets and rifles. On the arrival of our battery the rebels sson beat a
